Using our website and cookies

While we do not use browsing information to identify you personally, we may record certain information about your use of our website, such as which pages you visit, the time and date of your visit and the internet protocol address assigned to your computer.

We may also use 'cookies' (a packet of information placed on a user's device by a website for record keeping purposes) or other similar tracking technologies on our website that help us track your website usage and remember your preferences. Cookies are small files that store information on your computer, TV, mobile phone or other device. They enable the entity that put the cookie on your device to recognise you across different websites, services, devices and/or browsing sessions. You can disable cookies through your internet browser but our websites may not work as intended for you if you do so.

We may also use cookies to enable us to collect data that may include personal information. For example, where a cookie is linked to your account, it will be considered personal information under the Privacy Act. We will handle any personal information collected by cookies in the same way that we handle all other personal information as described in this Privacy Policy.

Storage and security

We may hold your information in either electronic or hard copy form, at our premises and the premises of our service providers (which includes storage on the cloud). Where this occurs, we take reasonable steps to protect your personal and credit information from misuse, interference and loss, as well as unauthorised access, modification or disclosure and we use a number of physical, administrative, personnel and technical measures to protect your personal and credit information. For example, our practices provide that all data is stored securely and data is accessible only by authorised personnel of nu mobile and its authorised service providers. In our commitment to the protection and security of the data we hold, we will review our data access policy periodically. The internet is not a secure method of transmitting information. Accordingly, other than where we use applicable technology to ensure information (such as credit card information) is securely transmitted and processed, we cannot and do not accept responsibility for the security of information you send to or receive from us over the internet, or for any unauthorised access or use of that information.

We also keep records of our interactions with you (including by telephone, email and online) and your enquiries or complaints, but will take reasonable steps to destroy or permanently de-identify personal and credit information when we no longer need it.

We will retain personal and credit information, in such a state and for a period of time, as required by law or regulations. For example, we are required by law to keep records of your transactions with us for a period of at least 7 years.

Links

Our website may contain links to websites operated by third parties. Those links are provided for convenience and may not remain current or be maintained. Unless expressly stated otherwise, we are not responsible for the privacy practices of, or any content on, those linked websites, and have no control over, or rights in, those linked websites. The privacy policies that apply to those other websites may differ substantially from our Privacy Policy, so we encourage individuals to read them before using those websites.

Accessing or correcting your information

You can access the personal and credit information we hold about you by contacting us using the details set out at the bottom of this Privacy Policy.

Sometimes, we may not be able to provide you with access to all of your personal or credit information and, where this is the case, we will tell you why. We may also need to verify your identity when you request your personal or credit information. We may charge you a reasonable amount to provide you with access to the personal and/or credit information that you have requested.

If you think that any personal or credit information we hold about you is inaccurate, please contact us and we will take reasonable steps to ensure that it is corrected.

Making a complaint

If you think we have breached the Privacy Act, or you wish to make a complaint about the way we have handled your personal or credit information, please contact us via help.numobile.com.au.

Please include your name, email address and/or telephone number and clearly describe your complaint. We will acknowledge your complaint and respond to you regarding your complaint within 30 days.

If your concerns are not resolved to your satisfaction, you may be able to escalate your complaint to an external dispute resolution scheme or to a regulatory authority. We can provide details of the appropriate scheme/regulator for you, as these may vary by jurisdiction or service.
