

Mobile and internet services have become a big part of our lives. There are probably times when you are trying to keep up with all your bills, so if your financial situation changes and you have trouble with payments, we'll make it a priority to keep you connected.

The purpose of this Payment Assistance Policy (Policy) is to outline numobile's commitments to identifying, informing, supporting, and interacting with you, if you do encounter financial hardship, as defined by the Telecommunications (Financial Hardship) Industry Standard (2024) (the Standard) as administered by the Australian Communications and Media Authority (ACMA). This policy runs through the types of payment assistance we offer, and how to get them. If you're currently having trouble with your payments and you're concerned about your connection, it's important to know we'll only ever suspend or disconnect a service as a last resort.

What is payment assistance?

Payment assistance is designed to take the pressure of when you are having difficulty paying your bill. Payment assistance support is free to set up, and tailored to your situation. It can include:

- giving you more time to make a payment
- setting up a payment plan that works for you, and
- looking into your costs and ways to reduce them, such as changing to a cheaper mobile plan

In some cases, we'll also consider removing some of what you owe from your account, or applying a credit.

If we offer a plan change, we'll only suggest services we can offer you. We'll explain why we believe they're better for you and transfer you at no cost if you agree.

Payment assistance can be either short-term (up to 3 billing cycles) or long-term (more than 3 billing cycles). For long-term assistance or repeated short-term assistance, we might ask for certain information to support your application. However, if you've been impacted by domestic or family violence, we won't ask for details about your situation.

Who's eligible for payment assistance?

You're eligible for payment assistance if you are a numobile customer with an active account and having trouble keeping up with your regular payments.

Don't worry if you have an open complaint or other enquiry with numobile, or an open complaint with the Telecommunications Industry Ombudsman (TIO), we will still help you.

Certain life events can often lead to financial stress. You may find you need payment assistance if:

- you lose a close family member
- you or someone in your household is suffering from a serious illness
- you've been impacted by domestic or family violence
- you're unemployed
- your income has been reduced (or is too low to cover your costs), or
- you've been affected by a natural disaster.

These are only some of the reasons people might have trouble making payments, and we help in situations beyond those listed here.

Having an open complaint or fault with numobile doesn't stop you from getting payment assistance. If you're unsure about whether you're eligible, please get in touch to make sure you get the support you're entitled to. You can also receive assistance more than once.

We might also get in touch to offer payment assistance if you have a history of late payments or haven't been able to keep up with a payment plan.

How to apply or find out more

Whether you're ready to apply, or just want to talk things through, our support team can help.

We know it's not easy to ask for help – especially when it comes to money. We promise to be polite and discreet, and limit how much information we ask for. With your permission, a financial counsellor or authorised person can get assistance on your behalf.

When you're ready, please get in touch with our support team via support@numobile.com.au or leave us a voice note on 1800 951 384 and we'll get back to you.

We will let you know the outcome of your application in writing within 7 business days.

When you reach out for payment assistance:

1. We'll pause payment notices for any charges you owe.
2. If you're eligible, we'll let you know what sort of assistance we can provide, taking your circumstances into account to make sure it's fair, flexible and affordable.
3. If you'd like, we'll give you time to consider your options, or discuss them with someone you trust, before making any decisions.
4. You let us know what you'd like to do.
5. We'll apply the support to your account as soon as possible.
6. We'll confirm your plan in writing. If you're not eligible for assistance, we'll get in touch to let you know, using your preferred contact method.

You can check on the status of your application by sending us an email at support@numobile.com.au or calling us on 1800 951 384 on Mon–Fri between 9am and 5pm.

While you're receiving payment assistance

While you're on payment assistance, you will need to:

- make your agreed payments when they're due
- let us know if you can't make your payments
- let us know if your situation changes (in a way that affects your payment assistance plan) within 14 days
- keep your contact details up to date, and
- if we ask you to get in touch with us, do so as soon as possible.

Above all, payment assistance is designed to alleviate your financial stress. If it ever feels insufficient, please reach out to us, and we will explore other ways to assist you. However, if you miss your agreed payments without informing us, we may have to terminate your payment assistance. We will send reminders and make attempts to contact you before taking any action. If we receive no response and are unable to reach you, we may have to suspend or disconnect your service.
